Die Uhrzeit

a	8.00	'eight (o'clock)'
	8.05	'eight oh [əʊ] five' (digital) 'five (minutes) past eight' (analog)
	8.15	'eight fifteen' '(a) quarter past eight'
	8.20	'eight twenty' 'twenty (minutes) past eight'
	8.30	'eight thirty' 'half past eight'
	8.45	'eight forty-five' '(a) quarter to nine'
	8.53	'eight fifty-three' 'seven minutes to nine'

Man verwendet o'clock nur für die volle Stunde:
eight o'clock, nine o'clock, ten o'clock usw.

half past two half past eight halb drei halb neun

Half past two bedeutet „halb drei“ (also nicht: „halb zwei“).

b	8.00 am	'eight am [eɪ'ɛm]'
	8.00 Uhr	'eight o'clock in the morning'
	8.00 pm	'eight pm [pi:'ɛm]'
	20.00 Uhr	'eight o'clock in the evening' 'eight o'clock at night'

Durch den Zusatz am („vormittags“) kann man deutlich machen, dass man die zwölf Stunden vor 12 Uhr mittags meint (= 0 Uhr–12 Uhr).

Durch den Zusatz pm („nachmittags“) kann man deutlich machen, dass man die zwölf Stunden nach 12 Uhr mittags meint (= 12 Uhr–24 Uhr).

Der Bus fährt um 20 Uhr.
nicht: The bus leaves at 8 o'clock pm.
sondern: The bus leaves at 8 o'clock in the evening.
oder: The bus leaves at 8 pm.

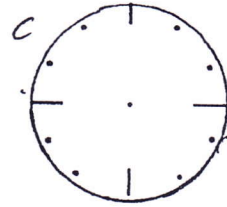

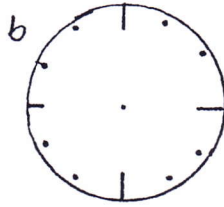

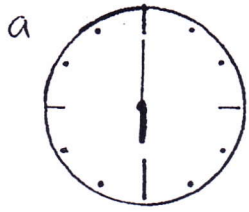

Die Zusätze am und pm stehen nicht zusammen mit o'clock.

c	The next train leaves at 14.27.
	14.27 'fourteen twenty-seven'
	20.00 'twenty (hundred) hours'
	20.05 'twenty oh [əʊ] five'

Die Einteilung in 24 Stunden wird vor allem in Fahrplänen (im BE) verwendet.
